Sir YK Pao, Pioneer and Philanthropist

YK Pao School is founded in honour of visionary entrepreneur and philanthropist Sir Yue-Kong Pao. Our school embodies his values and vision of empowering future generations through education.

A PIONEER

Born in Ningbo, Zhejiang Province, in 1918, Sir YK Pao worked in Shanghai's banking industry before moving to Hong Kong to found World-Wide Shipping Group in 1955.

The company became one of the world's preeminent shipping companies, its success earning Sir YK Pao the moniker "King of the Sea" from Newsweek in 1976.

In 1978, Sir YK Pao acquired control of Wharf, becoming its first Chinese chairman since the company was established in 1886. He later served as HSBC's first Chinese Director and Vice Chairman.

A PHILANTHROPIST

During his lifetime, Sir YK Pao made pioneering and transformative gifts in support of education in Hong Kong and mainland China, including the establishment of Ningbo University, founding the Sino-British Friendship Scholarship Scheme, building libraries at Shanghai Jiao Tong University and launching scholarship and international faculty exchange programmes at Zhejiang University, the University of Hong Kong, and the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

A young man with dark hair, wearing a yellow traditional Chinese shirt with a dragon pattern, is holding a large, ornate dragon head prop. The dragon head is made of gold and red fabric, with intricate details and a large eye. The background is dark, and there are other colorful dragon props visible, suggesting a festival or parade. The entire scene is framed by a yellow border.
